Northampton Brothers take on Hollywood with World Premiere in LA

Los Angeles, California, USA - 21st July 2008 - Move over the Wachowski Brothers! Two siblings from Wellingborough, Northamptonshire, Adam and Benedict Garrett, under the persona Guy Orlebar and Bene't Lynton, take on Hollywood at its own game by directing and taking the star role respectively in the new international co-production, the independent movie LOST IN LOVE, premiering in Los Angeles this month.

As part of this year's LA/NY Bi-Coastal Film Festival, LOST IN LOVE is heading the program in LA on 21st July at Laemmle Sunset 5, 8000 Sunset Blvd., West Hollywood, 90046 (Tel. 323-848-3500). The official movie website is at <http://www.LostInLoveMovie.com> and the official Film Festival homepage is at <http://www.nyfilmvideo.com>. Interviews with the brothers and other stars and crew, can be requested through Guy Orlebar at his details above.

Starting a professional acting career as a child in the Royal Theatre Northampton's version of The Sound of Music, Bene't has recently starred in the London musicals WEST SIDE STORY, BAT BOY and this month's THE FIX at the Bridewell Theatre. His brother Guy, living in Asia since 2000 and now based in Hong Kong, heads his own film production company Agog Films Productions, where he has written, directed, edited and produced LOST IN LOVE. In addition, Northampton's own eclectic Tuan Mac and dance group Rollermecca provide the movie's vibrant soundtrack and score.

LOST IN LOVE is Guy Orlebar's highly autobiographical directorial debut, concerning a young Englishman who must travel to Hong Kong, where East meets West, to search for his love and the true meaning of life. Starring also Hong Kong kung fu master Gordon Liu (KILL BILL), with leading actresses from Asia and global musical talent, this is a love story of truly international proportions.
How far would you go for love?
