FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Kung Fu Superstar Trades Kicks for Kisses in LA World Premiere

Los Angeles, California, USA – 21st July 2008 – In his first English-language film since Quentin Tarantino's Kill Bill movies, Hong Kong action star and martial art legend, Gordon Liu, stars in the new international co-production, the independent love-drama movie LOST IN LOVE, which premieres this month in Hollywood.

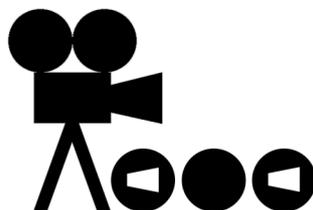

As part of this year's LA/NY Bi-Coastal Film Festival, LOST IN LOVE is heading the program in LA on 21st July at Laemmle Sunset 5, 8000 Sunset Blvd., West Hollywood, 90046 (Tel. 323-848-3500). The official movie website is at <http://www.LostInLoveMovie.com> and the official Film Festival homepage is at <http://www.nyfilmvideo.com>. Interviews with Master Liu and the other stars and crew of the movie, can be requested through the Director/Producer Guy Orlebar at his details above.

Known the world over for his eighty-plus martial arts action flicks and his twin roles of the kung fu teacher Pai Mei and the yakuza general Johnny Mo in Quentin Tarantino's Kill Bill, LOST IN LOVE marks a departure from Master Liu's usual action fare. Here, Master Liu plays with tremendous flair and sensitivity the intrepid investment banker, so typical on the Hong Kong scene, who unwittingly finds his significantly younger love's past catch up with them both.

LOST IN LOVE is Guy Orlebar's highly autobiographical directorial debut, concerning a young Englishman who must travel to Hong Kong, where East meets West, to search for his love and the true meaning of life. Starring also Hong Kong kung fu master Gordon Liu (KILL BILL), and actors from UK, Japan and Hong Kong, this is a love story of truly international proportions.
How far would you go for love?
